

DIGITAL

Africanews launches its App available for free on App Store

The application is designed to keep you informed wherever you go and whenever you need it, from your iPhone or iPad. Even better, Africanews app offers the possibility to manage your Data Plan with the OFFLINE mode and DATA SAVINGS features.

Pointe-Noire, Republic of Congo – 6 July 2017 – Africanews is a leading multilingual, pan-African news outlet. Africanews is available in sub-Saharan Africa via its complete offer (TV + digital: website, social media, mobile applications).

Now available on App Store, Africanews app offers free access to all iPhone and iPad users, you can catch up all the news published on africanews.com, all programmes as well as Live TV.

The first Africanews app allows you to follow pan-African and international news anywhere and at any time.

Africanews app is available for free on Apple Store in both English and French languages. To download the application, click here.

Africanews application for iOS devices also offers:

- Push notifications for Breaking News
- Africanews Live to watch the channel 24/7
- Constantly updated timeline so you don't miss any event
- Our editor's choice for global news
- Highlighted videos with thematic playlists
- A rich content (media content with pictures, tweets and videos, live blogging)
- Special features (Widget iOS, Data Savings feature to save your Data package, Offline mode feature for an Offline reading)

Michael Peters, CEO of Euronews and President of Africanews

"Since its launch, we have positioned Africanews as a news platform dedicated to the challenges and opportunities of a Digital Africa.

Today, I'm delighted to announce the launch of the app for Apple devices. The iOS app complements our bilingual digital services, with our website, our YouTube channels, and our Facebook and Twitter accounts. In addition to enable information from a sub-Saharan perspective to radiate even more around the world, we designed Africanews app specifically for our African audience who can choose the means through which they want to be informed, from Breaking News push notifications to TV in live streaming."

Africanews App: available soon on Android

Africanews App will soon be available for free on Android. Be among the first to be informed. Click here to register africanews.com/apps

Follow us on Twitter @africanews and @euronews\_group

For further information, please contact:

Press office

Solange Bodiong Chauwin

Communication Officer

t +242 06 460 86 98

solange.bodiong-chauwin@africanews.com

Editorial

François Chignac

Director of Editorial Development

t +242 06 996 00 88

francois.chignac@africanews.com

Euronews Group press office - Lydie Bonvallet - t +33 (0)4 28 67 05 35 lydie.bonvallet@euronews.com

About Africanews

Africanews, launched in 2016 (digital in January, TV in April), stands out as the first pan-African multilingual media source produced simultaneously in French and English, and offering coverage of African and global news from a sub-Saharan perspective.

Today, Africanews TV is available in 37 countries across sub-Saharan Africa thanks to major pay-tv players and national channels (partial broadcast). The Africanews signal covers sub-Saharan Africa and the Indian Ocean islands via two satellites: SES 4 and SES 5.

Africanews' digital platforms, available around the world, highlights the challenges and opportunities of a connected Africa:

- africanews.com has a responsive website design to suited to all mobile, tablet and computer screens.
- two YouTube channels (in English and French) and Facebook and Twitter accounts @africanews and @africanewsfr.

Africanews is a 100% Euronews subsidiary. Africanews adheres to the same editorial charter as its European sister channel, Euronews.